This bleeding can damage your organs and tissues and may be life threatening Overview Hemophilia usually is inherited.. Rarely, hemophilia can be acquired 'Acquired" means you aren't born with the disorder, but you develop it during your lifetime.. These proteins work with platelets (PLATE-lets) to help the blood clot Platelets are small blood cell fragments that form in the bone marrow—a sponge-like tissue in the bones.

This can happen if your body forms antibodies (proteins) that attack the clotting factors in your bloodstream.. Platelets play a major role in blood clotting When blood vessels are injured, clotting factors help platelets stick together to plug cuts and breaks on the vessels and stop bleeding.
